Faculty of Dental Sciences Handbook-2016/17

MESSAGE FROM THE VICE-CHANCELLOR

It is with great pleasure that I welcome all new entrants 2016/17 of the Faculty of Dental Sciences on behalf of the University of Peradeniya. Those who get admission to the University are indeed a privileged group considering the numbers who qualify to enter the Sri Lankan University system. As we all aware that only about 15 percent of the candidates who sit the GCE (A/L) qualify for university admission annually. Therefore, it is the prime duty of all university students to complete their higher education with merit and make the best use of the opportunity provided to them.

The newcomers will begin their university education with an Intensive Course in English, an important component in order to follow the teaching and training programmes and to succeed in their future career as professionals in the field of Dentistry.

The primary objective of a Dental undergraduate would be to complete the course in Dentistry successfully. However, the Dental Students should be attentive that the University of Peradeniya has much more to offer that complements, individuals to succeed in life. The University offers a favorable environment for intellectual pursuits of a diverse nature. It has one of the best libraries in South Asia covering many areas of learning.

University of Peradeniya also has a large number of student societies covering wide interests ranging from nature exploration, conservation and scientific innovation, to culture, music, drama and religious and social activities. The students can gainfully engage themselves in the activities of these societies to broaden their perspectives.

The University also offers exceptional facilities for indoor and outdoor games and a swimming pool of international standard. I firmly believe that students should make use of these opportunities to improve their physical and mental fitness, leadership, interpersonal and communication skills to become useful citizens to the society in general.

I take this opportunity to wish that your stay at University of Peradeniya during your undergraduate programme would be an enjoyable, memorable and rewarding experience that provides you with the necessary courage to face the challenges in the future.

MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN

It is with great pleasure that I welcome all the students who are entering the Faculty of Dental Sciences for the 2016/2017 academic year. I am most certain that you all are now looking forward for a fruitful academic life during the next five years, before you step-in to the society as a highly-esteemed dental doctor. Further, you are the second batch of students for the 5-year dental curriculum. This will be considered as a major landmark of dental education in Sri Lanka.

I consider that you as the most privileged and unique among the present-day A/L students for having selected to the largest and the most beautiful university in the country. It becomes even more unique, as this is the only Faculty for the entire country which offers a course in Dental Sciences. After successful completion of a major milestone, 'A/L' - arguably the most competitive examination for any student in Sri Lanka, I understand how happy and proud you all are now as university students. I am hopeful that you will enjoy your university life in every aspect, and wish that the five years ahead of you would undoubtedly be the best in your life.

You will soon begin to realize that the University of Peradeniya is a complete university with a wide range of facilities including those in sports and recreational. As the Dean of your Faculty I expect every one of you to be involved in some kind of extracurricular activity in addition to your academic activities. However, it remains your responsibility to use the facilities available in the university to become a well-adjusted individual who would be caring towards other human beings. At the same time, it may also be the high time for you to adjust with teaching and learning methods distinctive to the Faculty and the higher education system, which you may realize as different to the way you studied for your A/L examination. I sincerely hope that you will begin the university life with these determinations and your motivation to flourish as a high-quality professional.

As a Faculty, our ambition is to produce dental surgeons who can look after both physical and mental wellbeing of patients when they graduate. A dental student is the only student in the university system that gets the opportunity of treating another human being while being a student. In order to facilitate your training, the Faculty has very good facilities especially in comparison with most Dental Faculties in the region. Moreover, I am happy and proud that our Faculty is blessed with highly-qualified staff to teach and guide you to achieve the set-targets.

Finally I wish all the very best for our new entrants who start their university life today and also wish your stay at the Faculty of Dental Sciences to be a memorable one!

1. UNIVERSITY OF PERADENIYA – AN OVERVIEW

University of Peradeniya (UoP) is the largest University in Sri Lanka in terms of student intake, infrastructure facilities, trained academic staff, number of faculties and institutes etc. At present, UoP has nine faculties, namely the Faculties of Agriculture, Allied Health Sciences, Arts, Dental Sciences, Engineering, Medicine, Science, Management Studies and Veterinary Medicine & Animal Sciences, with 77 departments covering a wide range of study areas. The academic programmes of these nine faculties are strengthened by the well resourced main library, faculty libraries, and the IT centre which cater to the whole university.

The vision of the UoP is to 'be a centre of excellence in higher education with national and international standing'. Its mission is 'to contribute to the development of a knowledge-based society with social sensitivity, ethical rectitude and economic prosperity through education, research and dissemination of knowledge and active participation in national policy formulation and development in an efficiently-managed, intellectually stimulating harmonious university environment. By offering 19 degree programmes with its well qualified and well experienced academic and support staff, UoP has been successful in accomplishing its mission. There are 117 senior professors and professors, 12 associate professors, 417 senior lecturers and 227 lecturers in different fields.

The academic life of students entering the university is further enriched by the well developed recreational facilities provided free of charge. Further, UoP is the largest residential university in Sri Lanka and students entering the UoP enjoy the privilege of in-campus accommodation. However, maintaining standards of the academic programmes have become a great challenge to all state universities with the increase in student intake and limited financial allocations. Therefore, the UoP and individual faculties strive hard to obtain additional funds from external agencies to maintain the standards.

2. FACULTY OF DENTAL SCIENCES

Dental Education in Sri Lanka commenced with the establishment of the ‘Dental School’ in 1944, which was then affiliated to the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Ceylon in Colombo. The pre-clinical and para-clinical studies were conducted in the Faculty of Medicine and the clinical studies were carried out by two Departments in the Dental School; Department of Dental Surgery and Department of Prosthetic Dentistry. The annual intake of students in 1950 was 10 in number.

The Dental School was shifted to Augusta Hill, Peradeniya in 1953. However, the pre-clinical and para-clinical studies continued to be held in Colombo. Dr. S.B. Dissanayake was appointed as the Chairman of the Dental School. In 1967, it formally came under the Faculty of Medicine, UoP with its first Dean late Prof. Senaka Bibile. Revision of departmental structures in 1969 created seven divisions of study under the Head of the Dental School and it was considered as one Department in the Medical Faculty. At the Peradeniya Campus, the Medical, Dental and Veterinary Schools were amalgamated to form one common Faculty of Medical, Dental and Veterinary Sciences in 1973. By this time the intake of dental students had risen to 50 per year.

A scheme of departmentalization of the Dental School was implemented in 1981, creating five Departments of study. Finally in 1986, the Dental School became an independent faculty – The Faculty of Dental Sciences, with Prof. K. Bambaradeniya as its first Dean.

With Japanese International Corporation Agency (JICA) Grant Aid in 1998, the Faculty of Dental Sciences was able to build a new teaching dental hospital with modern equipment in its current location. The faculty now has state of the art modern facilities for training dental graduates which include clinics and laboratories for advanced dental treatment, wards, operating theatre and an intensive care unit.

Faculty of Dental Sciences Handbook-2016/17

Currently, the faculty consists of seven Departments; Basic Sciences, Community Dental Health, Restorative Dentistry, Oral Medicine and Periodontology, Oral Pathology, Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery and Prosthetic Dentistry. Within these Departments, there are 17 Divisions of study; General Anatomy, Dental Anatomy, Physiology, Biochemistry, Oral Medicine, Periodontology, Pharmacology, General Surgery, Anesthesiology, General Pathology, Microbiology, Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery, Oral Pathology, Radiology, Paedodontics, Orthodontics and Community Dentistry.

15. CODE OF CONDUCT FOR DENTAL STUDENTS

A dental student is a unique undergraduate in the entire university system for the reason that they treat patients whilst being an undergraduate. Therefore a dental student would need to be well prepared to be committed towards their training and be ready to take due responsibilities towards the society and general public prior to the beginning of their professional career as a dental surgeon. The investments made by the 'tax-payer' of this country on your entire education cannot be forgotten or underestimated for your entire life. More over the patients that you will receive training on, further help you learn on them by consenting to be treated by an apprentice. Therefore, a dental student is very much obligated to serve back to the society as they take up to dental practice. A dental student should also constantly recall that you become the 'most expensive graduate' among other graduates produced in Sri Lankan universities; since the highest amount of public money is being spent on the training of a dental undergraduate. The following aspects are of paramount importance during your training as an undergraduate.

i). Attitude: A Dental Student should not only focus on knowledge and skills related to the practice of Dentistry, but are expected to cultivate positive attitudes suited for a dental professional.

ii). Relationship with teachers, other students, health care team members and patients: The interaction and communication with your teachers, other students and staff will be of paramount importance during your early student days. As you move up to your clinical part in training, it will be essential that you develop honest and considerate relationships with patients, and other members in the health care team for the common target of delivery of health care to the society while appreciating the opportunity for skills-training carried out on patients. As equal to all health care professionals, you would need to extend unreserved respect and care for patients regardless of their social status, attitudes or racial/religious/cultural differences.

iii). Continuous Professional Development (CPD): CPD is an essential element in the growth and maturity of your professional career. It also is an ethical obligation for all health care professionals.

Although you start the professional career as a dental student, later as a dental practitioner you will need to embark on life-long learning and academic updating as you take up to clinical practice.

iv). Responsibilities towards the society: As stipulated in the Sri Lanka Medical Council, an ethical behavior is mandatory for a doctor or a dental surgeon. Therefore the students are expected to be well-informed of ethical behavior by referring to the details provided therein. When conducting research, they should always be in accordance with the ethical guidelines laid down in the Faculty of Dental Sciences or the relevant institutions where the research is to be conducted. At the same time, you as a responsible adult in the society should share the responsibility to report on unethical or unlawful events in a professional manner.

v). Rules and Regulations applicable to the University and the Society:

A dental student or a dental surgeon is no exception in terms of general rules and the law applicable for the citizens in the country. Students are expected to go through the 'Rules of the Faculty' and 'Rules of the University' on the web sites.

vi). Attire and Self-Care: All students are expected to abide by the Faculty Dress Code. A dental student should dress appropriately to fulfill the high expectations of the society. The dress you wear should give you confidence and a professional appearance. Therefore, follow the basic rules of being simple and modest while maintaining personal hygiene to the highest level. Please note shorts, short/tight-fitting garments, denims, T-shirts, slippers & running shoes are not allowed in the Faculty. All clinical students must abide by the standard clinical attire prescribed by the Faculty.

vii). Alcohol and smoking: Alcohol and smoking are prohibited in Health Care Institutions and the Faculty.
